

Abstract

The present invention relates to a process for reducing the surface reflectance of polymer substrates by means of ion bombardment, in which at least one substrate surface is modified by means of an argon/oxygen plasma with formation of a refractive index gradient layer.